Can I write persuasively (resilience)

Imagine standing in the middle of Trafalgar Square, surrounded by a permanent statue of ~~Dr~~ Sir David Attenborough; why deny this wonderful opportunity of having a statue who protected life and is still alive? I am writing to you as I want a statue of Sir David Attenborough and your recognition of his value wisdom, kindness and nature protection.

Firstly, he he dedicated to his life, caring for the ~~world~~^{planet}, even after 67 years old (time when people usually rest). This shows how much he cares for the planet. Currently, he is 100 years old but not yet in his retired home. He cares about the ~~planet~~^(despite his age) so much that he even studied natural science in Cambridge University, worked 12 years super-hard ^{for them}

Henceforth, the statue would be mean his dedication, ~~power~~ wisdom, kindness and protection. Amazingly, he tries to help people to stop Global warming as he thinks about the planet. Here is a quote from him. "depends on our actions," he said, caring ~~for~~ for life (human and wildlife). You might be wondering why.

He traveled everywhere ^{and} made podcasts about nature just to teach people and help them know how precious and delicate nature ~~is~~ can be.

In conclusion, I ~~am wanting~~ you to make ^{you must} a statue of David Attenborough, who cares the most for nature and is a British icon, ~~on~~ near his 100th birthday. Also an ever-lasting recognition for his amazing work, protection to life, & valued wisdom and thousand more.
